New Member Spotlight

We were excited to sit down with new members Lashawn Jordan and Cierra Johnson. These ladies are CEO’s of Bossy Bee Boutique and we love our small local businesses who are passionate about what they do!

Bossy Bee Boutique is an online boutique that originated in Houma, LA. They launched the business on August 23, 2019 and the boutique specializes in regular and plus size clothing. The company has accomplished many goals within the first year in business including making 500 orders and shipping to over 10 different states!

Lashawn and Cierra were born and raised in Houma. Fun fact: Their mothers are identical twins and were pregnant at the same time! Lashawn graduated from Ellender Memorial High School and attended University of Louisiana at Lafayette. Cierra graduated from Terrebonne High School, obtained her bachelor’s degree from Grambling State University, and a master’s degree from Southern University at New Orleans. They have been in business together for a year and they love preparing orders and shipping them to the customers. They say the most challenging part about their job is figuring out what marketing strategies work best for their targeted audience. They pride their business interaction with their customers.

“Our clients love our customer service, quality of merchandise, and priority shipping. We want our customers to trust that when they are purchasing from (Busy Bee Boutique), they are receiving good quality no matter the size.”

Their vision for Bossy Bee Boutique is to eventually become a multi-million dollar company that provides quality merchandise for their customers across the world. They invested in the Chamber to get to that goal by taking advantage of the networking opportunities to help them grow. They think the Chamber can help by simply continuing to assist with bringing more exposure and to connect with businesses who share similar goals and passions. They want to establish relationships with other small business and plans to participate in Chamber events.

We look forward to working with you and want to say welcome to the Chamber family!

Bee Bold, Bee Beautiful, Bee You!

Science, Saints and the Holiday Season

As the FOCUS goes to press in mid-November, the Saints are winning, but COVID cases are on the rise. With elections behind us, and Christmas ahead of us, there's also a renewed sense that everyone has a public health role this holiday season.

“We can get a false sense of health security when we interact with people we know,” observes Dr. Chip Riggins. He reminds that protecting each other from possible COVID illness is important to controlling the pandemic. Having small group gatherings with health precautions can prove safer than attending large gatherings to celebrate Christmas, the New Year, and Mardi Gras.

Pandemic Updates

For most of 2020, the large classroom at the Region 3 Office of Public Health (OPH) headquarters was uncharacteristically configured as an Emergency Command Center. Even after Hurricane Zeta’s quick passage over Southeast Louisiana, the setup remained in place with the Serenity Prayer posted nearby.

In the wake of Hurricane Zeta, the annual OPH regional “Mass Vaccination Exercise” for influenza prevention was held as scheduled in the Thibodaux Municipal Auditorium on October 29th. Dedicated local public health workers, students from Nicholls College of Nursing, and emergency preparedness personnel from the parishes participated in the event. It was a chance to refine collaboration plans and protocols for future mass vaccination, or medication distribution, should that ever become a necessity.

“It is gratifying to see the terrific diverse leadership collaboration between many sectors of the community,” says Dr. Riggins. Non-traditional partners in the public health system included local leaders like Rev. Juan Huertas of First Methodist Church in Houma. He served as a chaplin to lead prayers during meetings of medical operations partners. The Chamber of Commerce, tribal councils and civic leaders also participated from early on to calm, educate and help people adjust to the pandemic. It’s a stewardship collaboration that continues in this holiday season.

Planning for the COVID Vaccine

“Although the COVID-19 vaccine development is progressing, mass vaccination in Louisiana is still several months away,” says Dr. Riggins. In cooperation with the broad network of public health and medical stakeholders, the Louisiana vaccine playbook outlines administrative logistics, like transportation, storage, and training, and who will receive the vaccine. That access is organized by priority groups and features broad partnership commitments with pharmacies and other organizations. “As we get more vaccines, we’ll expand the outreach until hopefully every citizen in Louisiana can be offered a COVID-19 vaccine,” Dr. Riggins explains. While we await the arrival of a vaccine, there are things we can do in the holiday spirit of helping victims of COVID-19 and recent natural disasters. Blood plasma from COVID-19 survivors is in demand in Louisiana and nationally alike for ongoing direct patient treatment, and for manufacturing plasma-derived medicines. Details for donating locally can be found at https://www.thefightsinus.org/

Community Health Workers Assist COVID-19 Clients

Local support services increased this fall as more COVID-19 cases were isolated and close contacts have quarantined. Community Health Workers (CHWs) were added to the regional public health response teams to facilitate social services for COVID contact tracing clients. This included referrals to essential care or supply deliveries not otherwise available. Shannon White is the regional CHW based at the Terrebonne Health Unit, and Torris Johnson is the regional CHW Supervisor based at the St. John Health Unit.

Stewardship for SHA 2021

The upcoming State Health Assessment (SHA) in 2021 will seek input. This includes ideas about forces of change, community strengths, health data, and the public health system capacity derived through broad partnerships. Gaining the diverse leadership perspectives of Chamber members is key to assessing and addressing what matters locally in health equity.

Strategic local priorities and goals will be included in the subsequent State Health Improvement Plan (SHIP) through 2025. It’s a complementary initiative to other local planning, such as the regional Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy (CEDS) update underway by the South Central Planning & Development Commission.

MyParishCAN.com

Thanks to the persistence of Nicholls student interns, the MyParishCAN.com public health website is now online. It's a social media initiative for the next SHA-SHIP cycle for 2021-25. Support was provided by Southwest Louisiana AHEC and CountyHealthRankings.org.

Anyone can view the website, and individuals with an interest in local health are encouraged to register as Users. Multi-sector coalitions can create a Group in the “Collective Action Network” section. OPH Region 3 connections are also available on https://Facebook.com/PublicHealthCAN/.

The Resource page of MyParishCAN.com links to state and national health equity data, and current reports such as the Louisiana HIV/STD Surveillance summary. Other links include annual Americas Health Rankings data, which will be updated mid-December with health status trends and states comparisons. The link to the new Healthy People 2030 indicators provides benchmarks for population health improvements in this decade. The 2030 section on “How to use the indicators in my work” can spark evidence-informed ideas for Chamber committees and community coalitions: https://health.gov/healthypeople/tools-action/use-healthy-people-2030-your-work

Health Equity is Good Business

“We’re in a a transformative time, and the Chamber of Commerce is positioned for stewardship of local health factor advancements,” says Jeanne Solis. She believes that advocacy for health equity policies is a stewardship role during the convergence of pandemic, economic, social justice, and storm-related responses. Solis encourages workplaces to continue the safer health practices that they adopted during the pandemic. Updating written workplace policies for standard health practices is an easy step she advocates for, aimed at achieving more OPH WellSpot business designations locally in 2021.

How committed are people in the bayou parishes to achieving better health? Now, there’s a lively conversation starter for the holiday season (LOL)! Seriously, health is on our minds this year more than usual, and it’s altering our holiday traditions. So, meaningful discussions about our culture of health going forward need to start somewhere, right? It’s okay to be brave and discuss it with cousin Joe, aunt Mary, or even Rev. Juan this holiday season.

What’s the Office of Public Health’s role?

Building a health habit in December is better than waiting for a New Year’s resolution to begin in January, suggests Certified Health Education Specialist, Ashley Gothard, MPH, Implementation Manager for Louisiana’s OPH Bureau of Planning & Performance. “We’re often tempted to have ambitious resolutions about our health, but we can start with tiny steps,” Gothard advises. Her suggestions include taking a brisk walk through your neighborhood or a local park three times a week for 30 minutes and eliminating one fatty food from your diet per month to build confidence toward healthier long-term choices.

Joyeux Noël et Bonne Année!

Self-care, both physically and mentally, make us more able to care for others whom we hold most dear in this holiday season—our family, friends, coworkers, pastors, clients, patients, and students. So, take care of YOU to enjoy the holiday season with others. On behalf of the Region 3 Office of Public Health team, we wish you a safe and healthy 2021!

TCU Foodbank: Terrebonne Parish’s Full-Time, Multi-Service Foodbank

For the past few years, I have made it a point to let as many people as possible know about the impact the TCU Foodbank provides this parish by sharing the statistical information of our operations. However, what gets missed is the other services that TCU provides outside of our primary food distribution program. Here is an opportunity to discover some of the other services TCU provides to the people of this parish!

First, we are open 6 days a week. We are open each weekday from 8-3 and Saturdays from 8-12. We use the other days for some additional programs, which I will later list, and to process deliveries. We never closed during emergencies when this parish needs us most as we have for the past 33 years.

Second, we have a homeless program in which we are providing services to some 280 homeless in this parish. Also, we are aiding Terrebonne Parish Consolidated Government in providing food when the homeless are given long-term shelter options. This program is relatively new to the area and should go a long way in helping the homeless get back on track.

Third, we are working with Volunteers of America to assist with COVID assistance. When VOA determines someone who has tested positive with the virus and is housebound with limited food sources, the TCU Foodbank provides the food along with the deliveries to those homes to prevent those from having to get out to obtain food and risk infecting others.

Fourth, TCU works with Fletcher Technical and Community College in providing food assistance for their students. Most people do not realize that 37% of all college students in this state are facing food insecurity. Our partnership with Fletcher allows its students to have one less thing to worry about that would affect their academic performance.

Fifth, we have a food pantry in Dulac. We partner with the Dulac Community Center to provide the resources for those who are at the Southern end of the parish and find it difficult to make the drive into Houma for assistance.

Sixth, TCU provides food resources to the Terrebonne Emergency Operations Center during hurricanes and other disasters. We provide food for the first responders, for those who go to the emergency shelters and extended services to the public after a storm.
Seventh, we work with the Louisiana Department of Health in providing food assistance to those who can be relocated into apartments from nursing homes, which saves the state a great deal of money.

Eighth, we work with over 19 other charitable and social agencies such as START Corp, churches, and hospitals in providing food assistance to those who go to them in need.

Ninth, I could not resist sharing what our organization has provided the parish this year to date. We served 10,500 people last year. So far this year, we have served over 15,000 people. Last year we served over 1.2 million pounds of food and this year we have served over 1.5 million pounds to date. All of this with over two and a half months left to go this year!

Lastly, TCU provides all these services solely by private donations, fundraisers, food drives, and grants. We have no regular reoccurring funds and depend on the people of this parish to help us help them. So, this holiday season, think of TCU to help make the holidays just a little more bearable. You can visit us at our website at tcufoodbank.org or on Facebook, at Terrebonne Churches United Foodbank. Thank each of you for your support and may God bless and keep you always.
Bayou Community Foundation Awards $175,000 in Grants to 27 Local Nonprofits in Round 3 of COVID Relief Program

Since April, the Foundation has awarded over $616,000 to fill critical needs due to the pandemic.

The Bayou Community Foundation (BCF) presented grants totaling $175,090 to 27 nonprofit organizations serving residents in Lafourche and Terrebonne Parishes and Grand Isle during Round 3 of the Bayou Recovery Fund for COVID-19 Relief grants program on October 20.

Since April, the Foundation has distributed 80 grants totaling $616,770 to local organizations specifically for COVID-19 Relief efforts from its donor-supported Bayou Recovery Fund. The emergency grants help nonprofits provide additional food, financial assistance, and protective equipment to meet the growing needs of residents right here in our Bayou Region as the health and economic crisis continues.

“Bayou Community Foundation activated the Bayou Recovery Fund for COVID-19 Relief in March to provide hope and help to local residents in need during the pandemic, which has resulted in over $616,000 in grants for relief efforts right here at home over the past seven months. That is an amazing investment in our community during these unbelievably challenging times,” said Bayou Community Foundation President Henry Lafont.

“We are grateful to all of our donors who have shared their gifts with Bayou Community Foundation so that, together, we can fill the most critical needs of our community during this crisis. We also recognize the tremendous work of all local nonprofits who have made adjustments and taken on new challenges to serve the neediest among us,” Lafont said.

The coronavirus pandemic and subsequent economic downturn has resulted in a surge of unemployment in our area, with thousands of local residents turning to nonprofit organizations for help in filling basic needs for their families. The BCF grants awarded in this third round of funding from the Bayou Recovery Fund for COVID-19 Relief will support food banks and hot meals for the hungry, rent and utility payment assistance, emergency shelter for the homeless, distribution of masks and cleaning supplies, baby care items for high-need mothers, and training programs for the unemployed.

“We help local veterans overcome the burden of PTSD, which, during normal times, is difficult enough. With so many job losses happening due to the pandemic, the stress on our veterans is even greater. This grant will go a long way to assist our local heroes with food, rent, mortgage, utility and insurance payments so they can take care of their families and themselves. We appreciate Bayou Community Foundation’s support very much and are overwhelmed by their generosity and the generosity of all donors,” said Brok Torbert of South Louisiana Veteran Outreach, recipient of a second $10,000 grant.

BCF continues to accept tax-deductible contributions to fund its grant programs for Lafourche, Terrebonne and Grand Isle nonprofits, as well as other initiatives to strengthen our Bayou Region. Tax-deductible donations may be made at www.BayouCF.org.

BCF was established in 2012 by Lafourche and Terrebonne Parish residents who, after Hurricanes Katrina and Rita and the 2010 oil spill, recognized the need for a community foundation to strengthen our Bayou Region and to attract national and international assistance in the event of a future emergency or natural disaster. Bayou Community Foundation is a tax-exempt public charity located in Houma, LA.

For more information on the Bayou Community Foundation, visit www.BayouCF.org or contact Executive Director Jennifer Armand at ArmandJ@BayouCF.org.

Bayou Community Foundation Provides Fletcher Foundation with Nearly $40,000 in 2020

During 2020, the Fletcher Technical Community College Foundation received $35,000 in COVID-19 Relief funding along with a $4,000 annual grant from the Bayou Community Foundation.

Since April, the Bayou Community Foundation has distributed grants to qualified local nonprofit organizations and local government agencies specifically for COVID-19 relief efforts from its donor-supported Bayou Recovery Fund.

In April’s Round 1 of funding, the Fletcher Foundation received a $10,000 Student Emergency Grant. This grant helped students in the height of the pandemic with hardship and new technology in order to complete coursework for spring 2020.

In June, Fletcher Foundation received $5,000 in Round 2 for Nursing/Allied Health Simulation Equipment. This equipment enabled nursing and allied health students to continue schoolwork in spite of not being able to participate in on-site clinicals.

Round 3 of the COVID-19 Relief funds were awarded October 12. This $20,000 grant to Fletcher Foundation provided funding for pipefitting/ship fitting equipment for training to help increase the workforce due to loss of jobs because of COVID-19.

The Fletcher Foundation also received a $4,000 Bayou Community Foundation Annual Grant for technology and software that will help students in Fletcher’s WorkReadyU Adult Education Program complete coursework.

“The Fletcher Foundation is so very grateful to Bayou Community Foundation for their generous investment,” commented Dr. Kristine Strickland, Chancellor. “We know that these dollars, targeted toward helping members of our community to get back to work, are essential to economic recovery. We believe that through BCF’s continuous support of non-profits in our region that we have an opportunity to help support more families in our community.”

New Scholarship to Benefit Nicholls Upperclassmen

Mike and Christine Bourgeois have donated $30,000 to the Nicholls State University Foundation to create a new scholarship for upperclassmen.

The Michael C. and Christine P. Bourgeois #4 Endowed Upperclassmen/Alumni Scholarship is the fourth scholarship created by the family. Previous scholarships were designed to benefit first-generation students, and students enrolled in the specialist in school psychology graduate program.

“So much money is geared toward freshmen, but what happens in the years after that? We want to help those students finish school, so that’s why we brought in juniors and seniors with this scholarship,” Mike and Christine said. “Nicholls has opened a lot of doors for us and prepared us for successful careers. This is a way we can give back.”

Applicants must be graduates of any Lafourche or Terrebonne high school and enrolled full time at Nicholls as a junior or senior with a cumulative 2.0 GPA or graduate student with a cumulative 3.0 GPA.

The scholarship will award up to three students $200 per semester.

“Mike and Christine are alums that are not only supportive of Nicholls, but also concerned with creating opportunities for students to be successful,” said Jeremy Becker, executive director of the Nicholls Foundation. “By creating their now fourth different scholarship opportunity for Nicholls students, they are leaving a legacy that is admired by the university, the Nicholls Foundation and the community.” For more information, visit nicholls.edu/financial-aid/scholarships/.

Fletcher Employees Recognized at LCTCS Conference

Louisiana’s Community and Technical Colleges recently held their annual conference in a virtual format. Each year in an awards ceremony, faculty and staff from LCTCS colleges are recognized for their outstanding achievements. This year, four Fletcher faculty and staff members received Distinguished Service awards.

Jacqueline Richard, Department Head of Science received the Outstanding Faculty award; Gina Marcel, Director of Human Resources, received the Outstanding Professional Staff award; Trey Clark, Assistant Registrar, received the Outstanding Professional Support Staff award; and Donna Estrada, Dean of Liberal Arts and Business, received the award for Distinguished Retiree.

“It was indeed an honor to recognize our outstanding employees and retiree this year, commented Dr. Kristine Strickland, Chancellor. “While our format might have been different, one thing that remains is constant is the dedication of our faculty and staff to our students and to our community. These individuals are being recognized for outstanding work performance and join an elite group from around the community and technical college system as being the “best of the best.” I congratulate each of them.”

Only Hospital in South Louisiana to Earn 5 Stars for Highest Quality Care

A five-star quality rating from Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) is the highest possible score awarded. With less than 9% of hospitals in the nation earning 5 stars, we were one of only three in the state of Louisiana to achieve this distinction. This rating, based on quality clinical care such as having the lowest hospital infection rates, best survival rates and providing patients timely and effective care, is proof you can have confidence in the high quality of care you and your family will receive.
